

Brent Sterling Nemetz
Producer/Director

Brent Sterling Nemetz, creator of Sterling Films, has written and directed his first feature film entitled, The Amazing Floydini, the story of a struggling birthday party magician who pursues a life of crime, starring Gabriel Barre and Gilbert Gottfried.

Brent recently completed the 35th episode of his NY Emmy-winning series, The Souls of New York (S.O.N.Y), a show about people with unusual jobs in the Big Apple. S.O.N.Y has aired prime-time on WNET's Channel 13 since 1996, and continues to be one of their highest rated television shows. The Souls series features celebrity introductions by Jerry Stiller & Anne Meara, Tony Randall, Joan Rivers, Jackie Mason, Donald Trump and many more.

S.O.N.Y. is now part of the permanent exhibit in the Museum of the City of New York, and to the Smithsonian Museum Archives in Washington D.C. The series is syndicated and airs in major PBS markets including Miami, Detroit, Atlanta, Minneapolis, Seattle, Fargo, and Providence, with additional segments airing on cable networks such as the Fox News Channel, Metro Channel, and Hallmark Channel.

Other television shows created and produced by Sterling Films include two-time LA Emmy-winning series, The Souls of Los Angeles (featured on OPRAH), The Souls of Miami, and The Souls of Rhode Island. The company recently produced a short documentary film, Charlie DeLeo: Keeper of the Flame (featured on GOOD MORNING AMERICA and The History Channel), a story about a man who kept the torch on the Statue of Liberty burning bright for the last 30 years. He is also currently in development with Paul Reiser and Nuance Productions and recently completed a reality show about Opera entitled, Being Tristan: A Tenor's Journey.